

Play the Table

Vol 7. No. 5 June 2006

Editorial:

It's the halfway mark, June & winter have arrived in no uncertain terms, time to rug up, snuggle up, stay indoors & play plenty of pool.

The middle of the year brings Party Time, with mid year Presentations and the Miss Q's Birthday Celebrations, check out the WA section for the awesome agenda and see your states section for Presentation dates relevant to you.

This month we have three of our Elite players heading off to the UK to play in the World 8 Ball Championships: To Marc Robertson (Vic), Jason Tucker & Alec Evreniadis (Sa) Good Luck, enjoy the journey, leave your mark and know that Premier and all of its Leaguies are behind you all the way! Bring home some World Class Bacon Boys!!!

The next Major on the Calendar is the largest and by far most popular 8Ball Tournament in Australia, its Berri Time! This event gets bigger & better every year, so its time for all Leaguies to get organized, with the limited accommodation we have managed to reserve, its first to pay gets the bed. To secure your entry see Lea in Melbourne, Mandy in Adelaide & me in Mandurah.

A big welcome goes out to Renae our new League Assistant in Mandy Land at Empire Pool Lounge in Adelaide, may your time with us be nothing but a GREAT Time.

With a month full of parting I wish you all tones of brilliant moments and leave you with this thought: Women & Cats will do as they please and Men & Dogs should relax and get used to the idea... :-)

Happy Potting
Kez.

Johnnie Walker Classic 2006 @ Empire Pool Lounge

The first weekend of May saw Empire Pool Lounge hosting the third Johnnie Walker Classic. With another increase of players from its early beginnings, 196 players fronted Empire's doors early Saturday morning with worldly ambitions. A wonderful mix of interstate players joined the ranks of South Aussies on the lovely tables of both Empire and the gorgeous new Cambridge Balcony Bar. Despite my ambitions to improve on the beans that I threw at the games last year, the alcohol still raging through my veins from the night before proved to be my worst enemy rather than a helping hand, and I certainly didn't get anywhere near qualifying. Upon a quick lap of the room it did seem that many others were in my shoes with JR (who was sprawled out sleeping on couches in between his games after spending the night at the Casino!) springing instantly to mind. In actual fact I think I heard him snoring and saw his wild unruly rat-like hair before I even saw the man himself. Some great matches were played and by Saturday evening the qualifiers were starting to get ready for the next days games and the non-qualifiers were ready to drown their sorrows. Sunday morning saw an interesting Calcutta, where Paul Hancock and Colin Laoutaris were quite disappointed when they realised that the person who bought Colin for $200.00 wasn't actually either of them like they had originally planned. After some tough matches with many nursing hangovers, and some surprise eliminations, we were left with a top 8 not to be messed with -

Mick Delahunty, Alec Evreniadis, Colin Laoutaris, Phil Jones, Joe Calabro, Anthony Grantham, Boris Ivanic and Gordon Paleka. And then there were 4; Alec ended up facing Mick in the semis and after being down a couple of frames Alec came up to win himself a spot in the final. Anthony found himself facing Colin, but even after some awesome shots, the man who drives while sitting on 2 yellow pages got through. So now we were left 2 South Australians, 2 mates, 2 business partners, whatever you want to call them vying off for top spot. Note should be taken that seeing as Alec and Colin are both such massive fans of the Jagerbomb, it was decided between them before the match that the winner would buy 60 for the room. A great match ensued, but the little man, Colin was on fire and took final control winning 5-3. And yes he did buy 60 Jagerbombs. The non-qualifiers comp lasted throughout the day with Ricky Watson winning the final against Lyndall Hulley. All in all a great weekend was had by all, particularly Spike, who was the lucky man that bought Colin for a measly $200 in the Calcutta. Congrats to Empire for another lovely time and heres to 120 Jagerbombs next year!!!

3 Parts Tanked

Well here we are in the 06 season of Elite and things have started off well. I have been given the chance to captain a side after playing in a mates side last year and its been an interesting experience most of my (Daniel Cole) squad is made up of guys in their first elite season, Craig Harris and Jamie Stallan from Sunday league are finding the higher level of pool (in most cases) a good challenge as is Nick Kostelac and Anthony Tincknell, as for Camelz (Cameron Fletcher) he makes sure you have a drink in hand and are having a laugh. This year has a good mix of teams like Crackers side who show you just how good or really bad your playing, through to Bennys team who like us are here to get tanked and have a bit of fun, lets hope the rest of the year is just as enjoyable with some good pool thrown in for good measure good luck to all leagues and go tigers! From Dan a.k.a batman

Just Good!!

The recipe is made up of half of last year's winners and half of last year's runners-up. Start with your experience and sprinkle in some youth. Add a little bit of interstate and

UNDER THE TABLE WITH ANGE

Well here we go again, but this time I have a picture to go with my bit! It was on a Wednesday Night. After playing pool and a few drinks and a mint condom (supplied by Rorz), a few of us ended up down the back. With straws in drinks and condoms on the drinks and even a condom even ended up on Rorz head. I keep telling you guys to hang around. See what you miss out on... We've had a few birthdays that I know of. So Happy Birthday to Jen and by the time that you get this you would have just missed Chick in Charge Leanne's and not to far away is Tod's (from the bar) B'Day. Happy B'Day to everyone else that I have missed. Never umpire your other half's pool match. It could lead to a divorce or something more. For more information just ask Kieran or Kat! The rumour that someone was getting married is apparently now a fact. Congrats to all the winners of the social league finals that have been played over the last few weeks. Cheers for now Ange

Circus Act with Trav

Lately here at Miss Qs Mandurah we have some very colourful people, and when I say that I mean that their personalities are as colourful as their hair. I think at this point and time it is more like a hair salon here. With the birthday bash coming up soon maybe we should have a hair style parade. When our local Tom, Dick and Harry all have

Mohawks of all styles and colours you'll never know what they'll do next. With Dick sometimes you know what he is going to do as he is like a horny dog and likes to run around rooting anything that moves, like your leg which he does quite regularly just to let you know that he is in the house. Tom and Harry on the other hand we think are fighting over whose is more colourful and styled, as Tom started with just a plan old hawk now it sticks out like Dicks balls. Harry must have just gone with the flow. Goldie locks at the moment is glued to the new arcade machine trying to get all the high scores which is pretty snazzy with the touch screen and all, just a shame its not red and have a wireless then it will be flash ay. Kerry needs a 20 liter of glue remover under her desk to get him away from it so he can get on with his work that needs to be done like yesterday!!! For the twisted sisters its been more of a wresting ring with a couple of day ban for trying out their wresting moves out one night things were a bit dull without them around now the place is back to what we like to call normal. Other people call it a three ring circus but most of us here like to think of it as a second home. So on that note farewell to all the clowns and ring masters and I will see you when I'm looking at you!! Your mate Tom :-p (Travis - Tues Blue & Thurs Elite Leagues)

Tips & Table Talk

When Playing Pool League & you come up against a new player who has not played World Rules before, be patient with them and go easy on them, until they get the hang of the rules. Try not to seven ball them as well.

When its time to put a new tip on your cue, get someone who knows what they are doing, because they will do the job right!

Jack Halligan has virtually achieved everything possible in the sport of 8-Ball (Pool) - Australian Open Individual and Doubles Championships plus 13 State Titles are testimony to his outstanding skills as a cue-man.

Jack has also been captain of five Australian and eleven State Teams and was a member of our victorious Australian team in our stunning victory against England in the final of the 1996 World Team Championship's in Manchester.

Jack has traveled regularly to England to compete for Australia since 1993 and has produced some outstanding results. At the 1993 World Titles, Jack completed the week long tournament with an amazing 88.89% winning average to win the "World Player of the Year" Award. This achievement is to this day, still, a World Championships record and is widely considered as a record most unlikely to ever be broken.

Winning this award was regarded as a once in a lifetime feat as the opposition players were the very finest from throughout the world. Amazingly however, after finishing 3rd at the 1994 Titles Jack again topped the averages (82%) in 1995 to win his second "World Player of the Year" title. On all three occasions Jack was selected in the "World All Stars" Team.

In 2000, Jack was awarded the "Australian 2000" Sports Medal, presented by the Prime Minister and Governor General, on behalf of the Queen for outstanding sporting achievement.

In 2001, Jack won the "Player of the Carnival" at the Australian National Titles in Cairns, the 2002 "Queensland Open Singles Championship" and in 2003 became the first inductee into the Australian "Hall of Fame". In 2005 Jack captioned the Queensland State Team to victory against Victoria in Mandurah, Western Australia in the Australian Titles!

Jack has appeared as a player on Australian, American and British television and has also been a guest entertainer on "Hey Hey it's Saturday".

Jack is touring your area soon, taking on all challengers, entertaining, with great trick shots, educating, with helpful hints and throwing in humour, with some great jokes and yarns. Don't miss Jacks show on Saturday June 17th at Miss Q's Pool & Entertainment centre.

News from A-Town

Holy Moses I can't believe we're already halfway through the year! But you guys know what that means don't you? It means its officially winter! No seriously it means that Kerry, myself and Miss Q's all celebrate their birthdays!!! But before we get into whats coming up lets at least pour over everything that happened during the wonderful month of May... The beginning of the month saw the Johnnie Walker Classic take place at Empire for the third year running, and what a smashing time it was! A well run tournament, with plenty of action, heaps of drinking, a ridiculous amount of Jagerbombs, quite a bit of gambling, and YES some awesome 8ball! But please don't take my word for it - you can read all about it on the front page of the Herald Sun, oh no wait I mean the front page of this newsletter. My wonderful boys and girls of our Monday Red League wrapped up not long ago, with some surprising and not so surprising results. The team finals saw the same three teams from last season all in the running for top spot. After team Losers, finished top of the ladder, they went down to last seasons champs, 3 Bags Full. Pool Pimps fought their way to the grand final the hard way, winning 4 rounds and eventually knocking out the Losers. So one season later and we're back to the same 6 blokes knocking the balls around for a few trophies, and they loved it! After a long, long match, some confusion, the addition of an umpire, a few punches, 3 Bags Full came out on top over the ever gracious Pool Pimps. They do take a good picture though..... Singles followed the next week, and with a very steady top 10, we knew we were in for some tough matches. Again Col Mustard pushed his way almost to the top getting in by the skin of his teeth with every match, but hitting a brick wall when it came to Kosta. The underdog of the night our little man Kosta proved himself to be cool, calm and collected knocking out first Colonel Mustard and then Uncle Pete. Pete, I must say I've seen you play better, but as always proved yourself to be a great competitor and gentleman. Grand Final came down to Kosta and Empire's very own Big Dumb Animal, Dave. The boys at least enjoyed a shot before the game but did have to endure Dave's minor heart attack halfway through the last frame. Dave took top honours in the end 5-2, but special mention to lil' Kosta who also celebrated his 19th birthday with us earlier in the month. And lets not forget Slug, who celebrated his 20th birthday just after the Empire Classic - where he won a Predator cue, the lucky sucker. Guys I could go on forever, but I won't. A big special mention must go to our lovely Kez who celebrates her birthday this month with and at Miss Q's!! Honey, from all of us here at Empire have a smashing birthday, and best wishes to Miss Q's and her hardworking gang - hope there's many, many blessed years to come!

See you guys next month xxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Player Profiles: —

As part of the Australian Team heading over to England in only days, I have had the pleasure of talking with both Alec Evreniadis and Jason Tucker about their thoughts on the trip ahead, and what it takes to get there. Alec is a mere 38 years old and has been playing cue sports for 25 years. Coming from a large family, Alec was tired of being beaten on the table by his older brothers and practiced until they refused to play him anymore. The practice seems to have paid off and Alec lists some of his best achievements including 3 Australian Singles Titles, 2 Australian Doubles Titles, a World Championship Team and he has represented South Australia in over 100 matches. Alec has also travelled the world for the good cause that is 8ball, taking him to New Zealand, South Africa, The United States, Taiwan, Malaysia and the UK. In a normal week Alec tends to spend approximately 15 hours practicing on the tables, but in preparation for a tournament likes to spend at least 25 hours. As well as an increase in table time, Alec says there are many differences to the way you approach your practice before a tournament, citing that getting back to basics, and a clearer frame of mind all help towards productive training. Alec denied being superstitious when I asked him, and when I enquired if it was best to have sex before or after a game he told me "I'm not answering that". However Alec is grateful to have the support of his wife Lyn whilst away, as moral support and positive thoughts go a long way. He also said that he enjoys having her there because "she tells me how good I am". When asked his predictions for the upcoming trip Alec says he has realistic goals for himself but refuses to guess the outcome of the tournament. Of course he would love to be world champion but he feels things would definitely need to swing his way, hence his "realistic goal" of making the top 16 and ultimately playing well for his team. For budding enthusiasts wishing to follow in Alec's footsteps he'll tell you for free that it's hard work, not to expect too much too soon, and basically you get what you deserve. In a life dominated by cue sports, which has lead him all the way around the world, Alec is happy to say he has no regrets, enjoying the company of people he has met and of course still loving the game. Here's wishing Alec all the best, I hope you can push this one past your "realistic goal"!

Jason Tucker, Tuckerbox, started playing cue sports at 14, under the direction of his father. At 16 Jason began playing competitively where he claimed his first under 18's State Title. Now 31, Tuckerbox lists some of his memorable achievements as making 5 state sides, 2 state doubles, 1 state singles and 3 Australian sides. In a normal week he practices 6 - 8 hours, but pushes himself to try for 12 - 16 whilst preparing for a tournament. Superstitions don't come into play for Jase, but he's a strong believer of one basic rule; "look good, feel good, play good". However he says that his motto doesn't always have a 100% success rate. I asked Jase if it was a good idea to have sex before a game or after a game, and he simply replied "It doesn't hurt", going on to say that the ladies over in England are a little different to our Aussie girls. In fact he actually said that "our 7's here are 10's over there", so the best of luck on that front. Tuckerbox reflects briefly on how nervous he was last time, as being out of your comfort zone with different players and different pressures certainly can take its toll on your game. This time, he says, will be different as he knows what to expect and if you can get off to a good start, then it doesn't take long to settle in. Those striving to get to the top of their game should spend some time on a snooker table according to Jase. He promises it's very good for your cueing action, and at a younger level it is positively the way to go. Here at Empire, Jase is rarely seen without a Boags in his hand, so when queried about his alcohol consumption whilst abroad he assured me that there would be copious amounts of drinking as "Happy Jase plays well". All the best Tuckerbox, lets hope you play well, and don't drink too much otherwise how will you determine the 7's from the 10's?!!!!

Premier Elite Update

Meet Team Far Que 2, consisting of Peter (Lard) Collins, Mark (big shooter) Collins, Shaun (Big shooters Dad) Van Houten, Mike (Fyke) Surynt, Ben (Bender) Eley, Kent (Superman) Kleinig. A weird combination of players, stemming from Empire's in house leagues, an assortment of social leagues and eventually our Thursday night cash comp, with the exception of Kent, who came from Krypton (he was young he doesn't remember). We hope to win the final this year but we keep coming up against the problem of having no talent. Maybe next year.. or the one after.. or even the one after that. We are here though to take what experience we can from the better players, and to drink as much as we can, which Shaun seems to be able to do quite consistently. Pete (Lard) Collins.

Meet team Maimou, which consists of David Limareff (C), Joe Calabro (VC), Paul Stojani, Justin Campbell, Kosta Koutrikas, Victor Smith, Jason Smith, Steve Seebolm and Alan McCauley. Our team was thrown together very quickly in an effort to make numbers, and was basically a very average team in Round 1. Now we have a very competitive team that can give it a shake and go all the way. We have a team of some fairly good players in Steve and Joe, followed by a very good second string bunch of players in Justin, Victor, Jason and David, topped with a couple of hardy rookies in Paul and Kosta. We find that there are some very good sides with very experienced players that will help the lesser players develop by watching and playing against these guys. Overall I think it is a very good concept and I think it has the potential to become an outstanding league in the years that follow. The incentive to play in the tri state final and then represent Australia in New Zealand is a great opportunity for everyone. David Limeraff BDA.

The Worlds Greatest Shave!!

One of our father and son duos from our Monday Black league (actually they play in different teams but you know what I mean), did the good thing and raised some money for the Leukemia Foundation. James raised $700.00 and daddy Clive raised a whopping $1200.00. Awesome effort guys, and you're lucky that your heads aren't funny shaped!
